THE VIEWER PICKS THE WINNERS

Talent Caravan's search for new faces has already started some promising young artists on their TV careers

EVERY WEEK between 6,000 and 8,000 fans write to National Trust, Toronto, to vote for their favourite contestant on Talent Caravan. An average of 1,600 people each Thursday night have pushed through blizzards and ice-storms to watch the shows in studios and halls scattered across the country.

And, to set the seal of fame, Ol' Rawhide has satirized Talent Caravan on his radio program. This makes Caravan a CBC institution along with CBC Times, Royal Tour commentators, and James Bannerman.

We decided to look in on Talent Caravan during its semi-finals in Toronto. It seemed a good idea to avoid the audience crowds by going early to a rehearsal. But at air time, CBC-TV Studio 4 held rather less than its capacity of 1,800 despite the presence of a wolf-cub pack in green uniforms and relatives of the contestants.

"That doesn't surprise me," said Drew Crossan, producer of Talent Caravan. "In Winnipeg we get 4,000 people. In Calgary we fill the hall with 2,600 people, and in Halifax we squeeze in 1,750 and turn more away. But in Toronto—they are very blasé about TV here. They wouldn't even turn up for Lady Godiva."

Tonight's show had its difficulties for Crossan. "In normal shows we pick contestants both for their ability and in such a way as to get a balanced program," he explained. "Tonight, with all contestants voted as winners from previous shows, we have five acts, four of them guitar-and-singing acts. That doesn't make for a well-balanced show."

We found musical director Ricky Hyslop in the performers' lounge during a rehearsal break. He was writing on a musical score on his knee.

"Each week I have to arrange the music for about 80 per cent of the six acts seen nightly," he said. "This means I have to rehearse the orchestra and conduct the show in one place, fly to another to talk with contestants about their numbers for a show maybe two or three weeks ahead, then fly to a third place for the intervening show."

Actually, Ricky's work is much more complicated than that, for he must cope with two "Caravan" production teams, the other under Claude Baikie.

But one thing is clear: travelling, conducting, rehearsing, talking and listening to contestants (many of whom have never sung with an orchestra before), and arranging their music keeps Ricky busy. And what is more, he even does some of the copying for the 15 instrumental parts needed for each number, and he has a large callous on his index finger to prove it.

"Once I liked to compose and arrange with lots of people and noise around me, at a party or in a restaurant," he said. "Then I got too old for that sort of thing and wanted only peace and quiet to work. Now—well, I have to do much of my arranging on planes and trains."

Ricky stood up. "We usually have a note rehearsal on Wednesday," he said. A note rehearsal is one at which the orchestra rehearses and gets together with the soloist for the first time. "Unfortunately three of the soloists couldn't make the note rehearsal yesterday so today we have to cut into Drew's camera rehearsal time."

We followed him as he walked across to the studio, still scratching on the sheet of music. "One thing," he said. "This is better than one of the smaller centres we played in. The orchestra was stretched way out on either side of me. The acoustics were so bad and the rhythm section so far away from me that by the time I heard the drums ending one number I was practically conducting the next."

On the studio floor there was the usual bustle and confusion of lights and cameras and stagehands—and competitors who seemed as confused as we always feel in the seeming chaos of TV efficiency.

"But didn't you get a Musicians' Union clearance from your own local?" script assistant Joan Pike asked a pair of contestants. (Please turn to page 4)

SUNDAY, APRIL 3*

A musical comedy premiere on CBC-TV's "Junior Magazine"

WHEN CBC Times poked its inquisitive nose into John Kennedy's office he was deep in a conference with set designer Bob Hall. Strewn across his desk were drawings of a New England sea-coast village as quaint and saucy as any Cape Cod could produce. Looking them over we could almost taste the salt in the air, smell the fishy tang of the sea, and expected to see a laconic old lobsterman meander around the corner any minute. From the cobbled road to the firelit, 18th-century interiors, it looked like a setting for a musical comedy.

It was. Kennedy was finishing plans for a delightful bit of fun and frolic called The Peaceable Lion, a project underway in the Toronto studios for about a year. It is one of three "specials" Junior Magazine is presenting this season. Next year Kennedy hopes to do six special shows. They are all being produced in collaboration with Bruce Attridge.

The Peaceable Lion (Sunday on most private stations, Saturday on CBWT) has been adapted by Marianne Taylor of Toronto from Mr. Peaceable Paints, a children's picture book by Leonard Weisgard, a highly regarded American children's author and artist. The show's lyrics and music were written by Fred Rogers, a puppeteer and musician in New York and Pittsburg. Both Weisgard and

*Delayed to Saturday, April 9, on CBWT, Winnipeg.

Rogers have been in close touch with show plans from the start, and The Peaceable Lion is shaping into a sprightly bit of entertainment that should appeal to the whole family.

When we commented on the warm appeal of the uncluttered sets and costumes Kennedy said they follow Weisgard's piquant book illustrations in feeling and tone, with the accent on simplicity. The sets have a Hans Christian Andersen flavour translated into North American terms. Kennedy pointed out a wharf scene—sailing ships tied up at the foot of a cobbled street lined on either side with cheerful bow-fronted shops and inns. Swinging signs overhead advertised Mr. Coffin's Apothecary Shop, The Rope and Anchor, Mr. Pettibone's Meat Shop, Mr. Godspeed's Fish Market. We noticed stocks down near the water, and Kennedy told us they figure in the story—but amusingly, for there is no blood and thunder in this tale. It's a whimsical, gay one, with a chase, a bit of suspense, and, of course, a happy ending.

It begins when a 13-year-old lad who likes to draw leaves his valley farm and goes off in search of adventure, all the way down to the sea and the little village nestling there on the sound—wind-swept, sleepy, and housing as amusing a bunch of characters as you would find in any musical comedy. There is Mr. Lion, a great, shaggy hunk of an innkeeper with a kind heart and a knack for writing verse; his doting wife; Mr. Dunstable, the town crier who has a passion for

"We didn't know," they said.

"Of course you did," she said and efficiently took them under the wing with which all script assistants must shield temperamental or inexperienced artists from pre-show troubles that might cause jitters. The same wing must also carry cigarettes for the producer, a stop watch, and reams of scripts, contracts, clearances, rehearsal schedules and so on.

Drew Crossan struck a discord on the piano. "That's your note," he told host George Murray who just laughed as he waited to rehearse a song with the orchestra.

"You know," said Drew, "I think George must have made more fans by personal contact than any other TV star in Canada. He's amazingly popular."

"I'm in my final year at the School of Music," said a pretty singer who also plays viola and piano, and whose attractiveness was not diminished by being surrounded with guitar players. "I've played off camera with orchestras before and I was one of the giggling girls on Patience on CBC-TV. I like working on television."

"We have all sorts of trouble arranging for transport," said Unit Manager Bob Haylock. "There's two production teams moving around the country, there's the out-of-town acts to be brought in to the production centres and rooms found for them, and maybe worst of the lot, we only find out last week's winner from National Trust on Tuesday and have to get him, maybe thousands of miles, to the production centre for rehearsals on Wednesday."

After the dress rehearsal, Drew talked about young Canadian talent. "One of the best things I see about our shows is the way the smaller stations are using the people we find—not just the ones who make Talent Caravan either, but those who we rejected, perhaps because we had too many acts of one kind. The smaller stations are often glad to use them. In general, I think that if we start working these young people right away, there'll be no trouble in finding the 55 per cent Canadian talent. On Talent Caravan we just haven't time to develop and help the youngsters. Usually they are too excited to listen, so we keep the whole thing as simple as we can. If we gave them instructions on how to hold their hands and heads in front of the TV camera, how to move on a set, and so on, in time I think many of these kids could develop into workmanlike entertainers.

"We do see a lot of imitation," Crossan admitted. "It's natural that the kids will imitate the stars. This again is sometimes frustrating, we haven't the time to dig out the real person underneath, but there again, the talent is very often present."

Perhaps no other TV producer can speak with a wider practical experience than Drew Crossan. And the 6,000 to 8,000 letters each week are representative of a great many more viewers than that who like watching the young talent that Drew Crossan and Claude Baikie find in their cross-country auditions.

hot chocolate; Mr. Peaceable, the local artist, who likes "to paint anything, everything under the sun and the moon and the stars," and who does what he likes and likes what he does; and the Boy, who wants to learn how to paint the way Mr. Peaceable does. These two are involved in some clandestine shenanigans in the dead of night concerning the upside-down sign on Mr. Lion's Topsey-Turvey Inn. There are others, too, in this gay little adventure, including sailors from six ships in harbour. Choreographer Alan Lund has designed a special ballet for them, made up of all the different dance steps they learned in their travels to foreign parts.

The music is bright and cheerful, played by a 25-piece orchestra under Howard Cable. Kennedy sang a few of the songs for us—toe-tapping melodies, simple but catchy. There is a great deal of fun in the show. Kennedy feels he has a very strong cast, "who should be able to bring it off with great elan." It includes Eric House as Mr. Peaceable; Paul Kligman as Mr. Lion; Irene Byatt as Mrs. Lion; Andrew MacMillan as Mr. Dunstable, and Robert Homme as the off-camera narrator.

The distinguished Irish actress Siobhan McKenna will be seen for the second time in eight days this Monday (April 4) on CBC-TV. Miss McKenna plays the role of a nun in "The Cradle Song," an NBC production in the Hallmark Hall of Fame series. Above—Miss McKenna in a scene from "The Long Line," a United Nations film on World Refugee Year, tracing the development of international responsibility for refugees from two world wars. "The Long Line" was scheduled in the "Dateline U.N." series Sunday, March 27, on CBC-TV. More details on "The Cradle Song" below.

Distinguished Cast in Pre-Easter TV Drama - "The Cradle Song"

As a special pre-Easter feature, CBC-TV this Monday presents James Costigan's adaptation of The Cradle Song, the tender story of a group of nuns who are left to care for a baby left at the gate of their convent by its mother, a street-walker. As the nuns' love for the child grows, they find that this love often seems to conflict with the duties of the religious life to which they are dedicated.

Starring in The Cradle Song are the Irish actress Siobhan (pronounced sha-vawn) McKenna, as Sister Joanna of the Cross; Helen Hayes, as the Vicarress; Judith Anderson, as the Prioress; Charles Bickford, Geoffrey Horne and Kathy Willard.

Walt Disney Presents

"The Goofy Success Story." A history of how Walt Disney's cartoon character Goofy skyrocketed from anonymity to stardom in the legendary Hollywood manner. Life wasn't always champagne and chicken for Goofy despite the fact he now lives the life of luxury in his exotic Hacienda Goofy. As a rag-tag vagabond named Dippy Dog, he was "discovered" watching a Mickey Mouse movie by movie talent scouts. Then came the change of name to the more dashing "Goofy" and the usual high-powered publicity build-up. After tracing Goofy's career, the show depicts his moment of ultimate triumph as the star of cartoon "Motor Mania," which won three national awards for excellence.

Joan Fairfax Show

Singer Joan Fairfax with the Alan Lund Dancers, orchestra conducted by Samuel Hersenhoren. Joan plays musical tribute to the month of April, with guest singer Tommy Common and guest pianist Paul de Margerie, of Montreal. The Alan Lund Dancers do a "stormy weather" ballet.

G.M. Presents

"The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz," a comedy-drama by Mordecai Richler; introducing Martin Lavut, with Alfred Scopp, Murray Senens and Jacqueline Michaels. Duddy Kravitz, a mixed-up 17-year-old with a driving ambition to "be somebody," arrives at a summer resort in the Laurentians to work as a waiter and "to make a study of the hotel business, like." His apprenticeship goes awry when his bumptious enthusiasm, flashy appearance and naive boasting alienates his college-boy colleagues. Unpopular as he is with his fellow waiters, Duddy works harder than any of them and gleans an enviable nest-egg in tips. In an attempt at revenge, one of the waiters enlists the help of his girl friend, the hotel owner's daughter, to involve Duddy in an illegal enterprise, "a sure thing" to increase his stake. (For more about Martin Lavut see page 20).

Jack Benny Show

Jack Benny enters a slogan contest and tries to sue the firm sponsoring the contest when his entry loses. Jack feels the first-prize money is all but in his pocket, when he learns his slogan did not win. He goes angrily to an attorney (Howard McNear) and finds the law office a retreat for zanies, including Dennis Day, Mel Blanc and Elvia Allman. Frank Nelson plays the contest plugger. Eddie "Rochester" Anderson will also appear.

The Twentieth Century

Presents part two of "The Mysterious Deep," a two-part report on our oceans, their significance, and new developments in exploring them. Today — "Inner Space." Captain Cousteau and Dean Spilhaus will be joined by U.S. Navy Lt. Don Walsh and Swiss oceanographer Jacques Picard, who recently established a new world depth record by plunging 35,000 feet in the Navy bathyscaph "Trieste" off Guam. Viewers will see how ocean currents exist from the surface to more than seven miles down, how the ocean behaves, and how man is trying to develop new methods to explore the sea and its behaviour.

I think that on the whole, as one gets older, one's interests should widen. In your twenties you should be the world's expert on something, even if it's something quite small. And then, when you've got a little self-confidence and a little bit of a reputation, you should then start to widen out and be rather a less intense specialist and hop a bit from one thing to another.—British geophysicist Sir Edward Bullard, on BBC.

Let's Look

Let's Look at . . . tracks. The tracks animals leave are clues to their identity, habits, weight and age. Today, viewers will look at some animal footprints and learn how to make these deductions.

Mr. "X" in Canada

This new 13-week series of children's programs, from Ottawa, will feature "people who have contributed to the colour, tradition and personality of our country." Writer and narrator is Dr. Carter B. Store, a school inspector of the Ottawa Public School Board, who will illustrate this historical series with drawings. Marion Dunn, producer.

Mickey Mouse Club

Today's program will include another episode in the Spin and Marty serial and a cartoon titled "Mickey's Mechanical Man."

Quick Draw McGraw

Today—"Six Gun Spook." McGraw and Bab Looney trail the villainous "varmint." Quick Draw finds the Varmint's hideout in a lost mine and goes in alone. He finally emerges with four bandits but forgets about his sworn enemy The Varmint.

Don Messer's Jubilee

With Don Messer and his Islanders, Charlie Chamberlain, the Buchta Dancers and special guests, the Farnell Sisters. The Buchta Dancers dance to Saskatoon Breakdown and Honeymoon Waltz. Charlie Chamberlain sings Country Style, Silver Haired Daddy, I'll Keep On Loving You and My Own Canadian Home. Edna Farnell sings The Auctioneer. The Farnell Sisters sing Blue Canadian Rockies. The Islanders play Golden Wedding Reel, Royal Princess Two Step and Cattle Call. Waldo Munro plays Free and Easy as a piano solo.

The Cradle Song

A TV adaptation by James Costigan, starring Helen Hayes, Judith Anderson and Siobhan McKenna. The story concerns a baby left by its street walker mother at the gate of a convent of cloistered nuns. The local doctor adopts the little girl and leaves her in the care of the sisters. Love for the child as she grows to maturity often seems to conflict with the religious life to which the nuns have dedicated themselves.

Music '60

Presents The Hit Parade with Wally Koster, Joyce Hahn, the Gino Silvi Singers, Bill Walker and Bert Niosi and his orchestra. Special guests this week—Gloria DeHaven and Gene Krupa, in a movie music show to celebrate the Academy Awards presentations.

Academy Awards Show

Bob Hope will be master of ceremonies for the 32nd Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Awards Presentations. Others appearing on the show are Yves Montand, Cyd Charisse, Fred Astaire, Gogi Grant, Gina Lollobrigida, Ella Fitzgerald, Susan Hayward, Janet Leigh, Natalie Wood, Meredith Wilson and Sammp Davis, Jr. (See page 36).

No "Homer" Says Gallivan

"That sportscaster is sure partial to the home team," is an accusation often levelled against men such as Danny Gallivan.

Here's how Gallivan, who describes the Montreal Canadiens' games on CBC radio and TV, explains the situation:

"It's almost impossible to cover sporting events and not become excited when the crowd roars as the home team scores or makes a good play. But this doesn't necessarily indicate partiality on the part of the announcer. Most sportscasters try to be fair.

"Sometimes one almost feels that it's the accuser rather than the accused who is actually partial.

"Fans should remember that they usually hear an announcer doing home games where about 90 per cent of the crowd generates excitement at the plays of the home club but not of the visitors. The announcer must often shout to be heard over the noise of the crowd when the home team scores but he can probably use a more normal tone if the visitors score."

Hockey fans will hear Gallivan describing the action from the Montreal Forum when the Stanley Cup play-offs begin during the latter part of March. (Bill and Foster Hewitt will cover the Toronto home and away games, unless the latter are in the Forum.) Gallivan will also cover Montreal "away" games unless they are in Toronto.

Gallivan will probably have to shout when the Canadiens are carrying the play, and he fears, will probably be accused of favouring the home team.

"Funny thing though," muses Gallivan, "although some people have claimed I'm partial to the Canadiens, others have accused me of being exactly the opposite."

Oscar Awards on Radio

Tonight's Academy Awards presentation ceremonies will be carried on both CBC radio and TV—see pages 24-25.

CBWT—Mary Liz Show

Cynthia Coop returns to the show today to start a new series on interior design. Mrs. Coop will examine various kinds of wall coverings for new homes and homes being re-decorated. Alice Poyser brings a new list of books she recommends for spring reading. Of special interest today is a film titled "Hosiery Facts and Fashions" which reveals the fascinating story of how stockings are made, and we learn about two plants at Stonewall and Teulon, Manitoba, which are an integral part of the hosiery industry in Canada.

Susie

Today—"Suspicion." Susie arrives at work and gets the feeling that something is up but that everyone is in on it except her. Susie does some sleuthing and concludes she is going to be fired when she discovers a mysterious visitor, Mr. Hollis, who seems to be her replacement.

Friendly Giant

Friendly's book today is "Leopard on a String," about a leopard that escapes from a zoo. Friendly, Rusty and Jerome talk about zoo animals, and watch a little bear who turns somersaults.

Maggie Muggins

Maggie, with Fitz, Reuben and Benny Bear go picking flowers, and find a box with a bear in it. The label says "Star Company," and they think it fell out of the sky. Mr. McGarrity and Miss Merriweather help to clear up the mystery.

Sportstime

Commencing today, Sportstime will be a half-hour show. With host Doug Maxwell. A girls' gym team from a public school will demonstrate some of their work. Some film of the Olympics will also be shown.

Sky King

"Speak No Evil." Sky delivers a drug needed to save a man's life. Delirious, the patient reveals that he was one of two men engaged in a prison break. With the sick man's aid, Sky lays a trap for the other escapee who is a murderer.

How About That!

Today, Jim Mitchell presents "Challenge on the Lake," the story of the only man to crash the water barrier and live—the trip over Lake Mead at 240 m.p.h. A story of ad-

Mary Grannan — "Retired"?

"Just Mary" moves to CBC-TV after 21 years on CBC radio

Mary Grannan, writer of the CBC children's programs Maggie Muggins and Just Mary, retired from the Corporation Feb. 26 after 21 years of service. But Maggie and Mary fans across Canada will still be able to enjoy the programs on radio and television. Miss Grannan will continue to write her shows, on a freelance basis.

Maggie Muggins will continue on CBC-TV (Tuesdays) and Just Mary, which has been heard on CBC radio for 21 years, is to be seen on CBC-TV, beginning this Thursday, April 7.

Mary estimates she will spend five hours each morning in her apartment in central Toronto, turning out scripts each week for two TV shows and one radio show. She is also preparing another of her Maggie Muggins books for publication this fall.

Mary gained her knowledge of children as a public school teacher in her native province of New Brunswick. She began her radio career in 1935 on CFNB, Fredericton, where she wrote and starred in a comedy series, Aggravating Agatha, and began her Just Mary show. In 1939 she moved to Toronto to write Just Mary for the CBC radio network.

Miss Grannan is considered a legend by many in the juvenile book publishing field. She has had 26 children's books published in three countries, returning $500,000 in sales to her publishers—an outstanding record for children's books.

In 1951 Mary received international recognition for her writing venture, heartache, teamwork and courage. Donald Campbell pounds to a world water-speed record in his jet propelled Bluebird. Viewers will also see "From France With Love", a travel film with exceptional photography and delightful musical score. Most of the places visited by a pretty young girl in this tour of France will be seen for the first time on television.

CBWT—Junior Hi-Lites

Amateur talent show for children in Junior High grades 7, 8, and 9. Don Browne - Wilkinson, producer. CBC Winnipeg production.

decorations, and so on, which seem to creep in over the year. Thelma Dickman, speaking from experience, will give viewers reminders about some of these unexpected costs.

P.M. Party

With emcee Alan Millar, singer Donna Miller and Allan Blye, Rudy Toth and his orchestra, Rex Loring and Daniel the Spaniel. Today's special guest is comedian Johnny Hamer.

CBWT—Ladies First

With pianist Jose Poniera and announcer Ken Dunstan, and a special female guest vocalist. Ernest Mutimer, producer.

Our Miss Brooks

Final program in this series. Today — "The Bakery." Curiosity prompts Miss Brooks to try to trace a one-time flame of Mr. Boynton, a mysterious girl named Rosalie. She endeavours to find out if Boynton is still carrying a torch but receives quite a surprise at the conclusion of the episode.

Friendly Giant

Friendly's book today is "Looking For Susie," about a little girl who gets lost. When the whole family goes to hunt for her, they find she has discovered a new family of kittens in a hay loft. The rest of the program is about kittens.

Huckleberry Hound

"Two Corny Crows." Farmer Huck battles two cagey crows who are robbing him of row upon row of his corn crop.

Art In Action

A technical survey of art movements and what they have taught us, with Professor George Swinton of the University of Manitoba. Today—Professor Swinton paints a picture.

R.C.M.P.

"The Extortionist." Matthew Standring takes the law into his own hands when his family is threatened by an extortionist. Corporal Jacques Gagnier waits and watches. Murray Westgate portrays Standing and Susan Douglas plays his wife.

Live A Borrowed Life

Anna Cameron, Elwy Yost, Bill Walker and a guest panelist try to identify the roles assumed by contestants. Charles Templeton is moderator.

Explorations

Second telecast in a three-part series on "The Renaissance," with host Alan Jarvis. This week — "The Mirror." Michelangelo's David embodies the pride and glory of the Renaissance in his classical beauty, when she was made an honorary member of the International Mark Twain Society. Other members of the Society, which has been called the "league of nations literature," have included Eugene O'Neill, John Masefield, Lionel Barrymore and Albert Einstein.

Mary's brand of fantasy appeals to adults as well as to children, and during the Second World War many a Canadian serviceman carried one of her books in his kit bag, and pilots of the R.C.A.F. Ferry Command nicknamed one of their planes Orville Bug, after a Grannan character.

Mary says one of her biggest satisfactions over the years has been the response of the children themselves to her stories.

When Mary read one of her stories to a group of Toronto school children the class presented her with a box of chocolates. As Mary was leaving, a little boy came up to her and handed her two cents.

"It's for you," he said. "We were supposed to give two pennies for the chocolates, but I wouldn't pay till I saw you were worth it."

strength, youth and confidence: a Greek head on the body of an Italian farmboy. Michelangelo's unique genius created a number of tragic and heroic sculptures whose dramatic beauty has never been surpassed. At the same time, other painters developed a new way of achieving psychological likeness in their portraiture: as never before men and women took delight in facing the artist's mirror. This, combined with the newly discovered ideals of classical Greece and Rome, created a kind of individualism which has characterized our history ever since.

One Step Beyond

"The Burning Girl." A teen-aged girl at a new school is teased until a strange fire burst forth near her. Her father tells her they can't keep moving from town to town because she starts fires but her aunt accuses the girl of being a witch. Later, a boy grabs the girl and forces her into a shack which soon explodes into flames. The aunt calls the police and tells them the girl is a fire-bug.

ODDS and ENDS

Great Movies with Fred Davis returns Saturday nights, starting in April. (The exact date depends on the wind-up of the N.H.L. series). Producer Don Brown says most of the 90-minute program will be devoted to the movie, with Davis simply introducing the film and showing a trailer of the following week's film before signing off. Tentatively scheduled—Arsenic and Old Lace, Hobson's Choice, The Corn is Green, The Man who Came to Dinner, Anna Christie, The Citadel, Meet Me in St. Louis, and Robert Flaherty's famous documentary, Nanook of the North.

Miriam Wolfe, who played Mother in "The Incredible World of Horace Ford" last Sunday (March 27) on G.M. Presents, is a well-known voice on CBC-TV's "Maggie Muggins." She supplies the voice for Violet the Skunk. Miriam came to Toronto from Hollywood a few years ago. In the film capital she did UPA Cartoon voices and some acting on television ("Studio One") and in movies (including "The Sixth of June"). She came to Canada at the suggestion of composer-conductor Lucio Agostini.

Joan Fairfax has been invited to star April 29 in Ottawa's annual pantomime in aid of the Ottawa Philharmonic. In this year's panto, entitled "The Wizard of Ozzawa," she will play the feminine lead opposite such Government Hill stars as Hon. David Walker, and M.P.s Jack Pickersgill and John Pratt.

Paul Almond's award-winning Easter play, "The Hill," will be given a new production by Almond in a special Good Friday presentation April 15. Almond first produced his teleplay on CBC-TV in 1956, winning an Ohio Award for CBC-TV. When he produced it again last year on BBC the London Daily Sketch commented: "The most moving, poignant play ever screened."

Don Franks — Constable Scott on CBC-TV's R.C.M.P. series — is currently in New York cutting a "satirical jazz" record, using his own script. Franks, who was guest on Joan Fairfax' show and star of "The Unforeseen" recently, is scheduled as the leading actor in a 13-week TV series being planned by a Toronto filmmaker.

When Juliette returned from her appearances at the Symphony Fiesta March 15 at the Winnipeg Arena, she who hope to adopt more. These parents will tell Anna about their family, and their experiences in adopting several children. From the Catholic Children's Aid Society, Roland Hennessey, Director of Children's Services; will tell us about his work, placing children for adoption, the information given to prospective parents about the child, the help given to parents to guide them in answering the children's queries on their background and adoption.

The Holy City—Part II. The Via Delorosa to Calvary, is the title of the second talk by Dr. A. D. Tushingham of the Royal Ontario Museum, in this pre-Easter series.

CBWT—Mary Liz Show

Three ways to prepare pork tenderloin are demonstrated by Mat Gauer on today's show, as we continue our current series of recipes for economical but attractive meat dishes. Frances McKay keeps us posted on the "Buy Of The Week" and special features of the market. In the religious series, Rev. P. M. Petursson discusses some of the tenets of the Unitarian Church in Manitoba and other parts of the world.

Just Mary

Beginning a new series with narrator Mary Grannan. Today's story "The Chinese Bracelet," is about a magic Chinese bracelet bought in Hong Kong by Gramps and given to his granddaughter, Sara Lee. In the first of two episodes, Sara Lee hears the story of the bracelet, solves a mystery and sets out to rescue a prince.

CAST:

Sara Lee _____ Merle Salsberg
Gramps _____ Alexander Webster

In the puppet sequences, voices are provided by actors Jack Mather, Douglas Rain and Roberta Maxwell.

This Living World

With host Steve Bloomer. Today's program is about creatures who co-operate to live. It tells the story of the bee—how it collects pollen, how it distinguishes between different flowers and how it communicates.

CBWT—Scan

began preparing for the starring role in a pre-Easter spectacular—"An Hour With Juliette"—to be presented on CBC-TV April 13. Guests included George Murray, Jan Rubes, Hayward Morse, and 30 children.

The Disordered Mind, a new four-part Explorations series begins April 20. The series was prepared entirely without professional actors, and consists mainly of interviews between mental patients and their doctors. It was filmed in the Montreal General Hospital, the Jewish General Hospital, the Verdun Protestant Hospital and the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Montreal. Consultant for the series is Dr. H. E. Lehmann, clinical director of the Verdun Protestant Hospital and professor of psychiatry and McGill University.

Douglas Leiterman experienced some trouble in obtaining the interview with the elderly Irish spinster in Chelsea, seen on the second "Close-Up" program on Mackenzie King, March 17. Repeated knocks on the door of this former spirit medium for King brought no result. Finally the milkman explained that the lady was deaf and could only be roused when she was in the kitchen at 6:00 p.m. It worked.

Frances Hyland, who starred Feb. 23 in "An Enemy of the People" (on Ford Startime), is in Chicago, playing the title role in Bertold Brecht's "The Good Woman of Setzuan." The Saskatchewan-born actress will be seen in the play for five weeks in the Goodman Theatre.

Munro Scott, who wrote the script for "I'll Sing Not Cry" for the Heritage series, found material for a book while preparing the film in Africa. Entitled "African Manhunt," the book describes the life and customs of the Umbundi tribe.

Jack Creley, star of "Ordeal by Poison" on G.M. Presents (March 20), will appear at the Stratford (Ont.) Festival for the first time this summer, playing Capulet in "Romeo and

"The Search for Cope Borden." Sam Logan corrals two bank robbers and then goes after their elusive leader in an attempt to save his company the cost of making good the bank's loss. Logan is forced to use a girl who has good reason to wish him dead, as a confederate.

Juliet" and the King of France in "King John."

Ruth Walker, star of last summer's Swing Easy on CBC-TV, will be guest vocalist April 30 on the last Wayne and Shuster Hour.

A new 13-week children's series, Mr. X in Canada, starts April 4 from Ottawa, replacing Science All Around Us. Dr. Carter B. Stone is writer-host of the series which will feature people who have contributed to the colour, tradition, and personality of Canada.

P.M. Party will be seen three times a week again starting April 4, following the conclusion of the National School telecasts.

A series of Organ Recitals will replace the chamber music programs heard Sunday mornings on CBK and CBX, Tuesday nights on CBW, starting the last week in April. Scheduled to perform in the series are Quentin Maclean and Dr. Charles Peaker of Toronto, Hugh Bancroft of Edmonton, Kenneth Gilbert, Gaston Arel and Bernard Lagace of Montreal, Hugh McLean of Vancouver, Gerald Wheeler of Ottawa, and Maitland Farmer of Halifax.

Saskatchewan Actor In New Hailey Play

Saskatchewan-born Neil McCallum, who has become Britain's most sought-after television actor, returns home to star April 10 on G.M. Presents. McCallum started his career as a singer, switched to acting in 1952. He is the only U.K. actor signed on long-term contract to ABC-TV.

The play in which he will star, The Queen's Peace, is about the London Metropolitan Police and a sergeant's efforts to help a boy offender re-establish himself. McCallum plays a Teddy Boy nicknamed "Lovely Boy."

Author of The Queen's Peace is Arthur Hailey of Toronto. Mr. Hailey has recently published a book entitled Close-Up on Writing for Television. The book contains six plays which brought Hailey fame as a top TV writer. Five of the scripts (Flight Into Danger, Time Lock, Death Minus One, Shadow of Suspicion, and Course for Collision) were first produced by CBC. The sixth, Diary of a Nurse, was written for a U.S. series, Playhouse 90.

How Friendly Giant Was Born

Robert Homme, CBC-TV's Friendly Giant, who recently won two television awards, one in Canada and one in the U.S., explains that he came to Canada after four years of successful programs in the U.S. "because no U.S. network had a whole department devoted to children's programming, and I was excited by the prospect of working with an organization like the CBC's children's department."

Although Homme has been originating Friendly Giant from the CBC's Toronto studios since the fall of 1958, he started the show in the United States in 1954. Films of his American shows are still being telecast in the States, which accounts for his eligibility for the Sylvania Award which he won in New York in January. Just a few days later he won a Liberty Award for the best Canadian children's program.

Homme has also won several Ohio Awards for children's educational broadcasts.

Homme's "giant" character was created when he was associated with educational broadcasting at the University of Wisconsin. In preparing a children's television show for the university station, he experimented with miniature sets.

"The set made my hands look like that of a giant, and I sugshe is really suffering from tragic delusions or if she is a victim of a conspiracy to rob her of a fortune.

Flying Doctor

Today—"Circle in the Bush." Answering a merchant's call for help Dr. Graham finds his caller murdered. Graham and Charlie find one of the men who robbed the store, with a bullet near his heart and Graham performs an emergency operation. The wounded man's partner arrives and tries to finish him off to destroy the evidence. Graham awakens and the criminal tells him he is going to take the aircraft and holds Mary as hostage.

gested to my wife that this might frighten small children," Homme recalls. "She said, 'Not if he was a nice, friendly giant,' and that started a chain of thought that resulted in Friendly."

TV Series Also Historical Record

CBC has awarded a contract to Robert Anderson Associates, a Canadian film company, to produce a series of six half-hour documentary films on the last of Canada's primitive Eskimos.

Camera crews will travel to the Pelly Bay area of the Arctic to record the customs and culture of Eskimos who have not yet been influenced in their way of life by the white man.

Robert Anderson, producer of the series, says: "The series will create a permanent record of the vanishing aspects of a Canadian culture at a time when all other Eskimos are rapidly being assimilated into the white man's ways.

"A unique feature of this series, which is tentatively called The Last Hunters, is the fact that a composer will be taken on location to prepare the first suite of Eskimo music for use in the programs.

"It is our expectation that we will be able to record for posterity the way of life of what might be called the last of the primitive Eskimos."

Director of the series is Doug Wilkinson, who has lived with the Eskimos and is one of the few white men to be adopted by an Eskimo family. Christopher Chapman, who has won awards for his filming of The Seasons and Quetico, is cameraman.

Perhaps the rootlessness of modern man is not so great, if through his individual effort he can, so to say, return home and be in contact with all the people of various races and religions who suffered, thought, and created before him.—Czeslaw Milosz, Polish author and poet, on BBC.

The Big Jet

A documentary of the jet age, particularly of the new TCA jets which will go into operation across Canada on April 1 and trans-Atlantic later this year. The film follows one of TCA's six Douglas DC-8's as it comes off the assembly line—fully equipped each one costs around $6 million—as it goes to the airport, as the pilots are trained to fly it and as the passengers go on its first flight. The jet is powered by four Rolls Royce Conway By-Pass engines developing 17,500 lbs. thrust each. It has a speed of 550 m.p.h., seats 127. The first flights will be between Montreal and Vancouver and will take 4 hours 55 minutes, including a half-hour stop in Toronto. Commentators for this program are Norman McBain and Madeleine Arbour.

Reflections

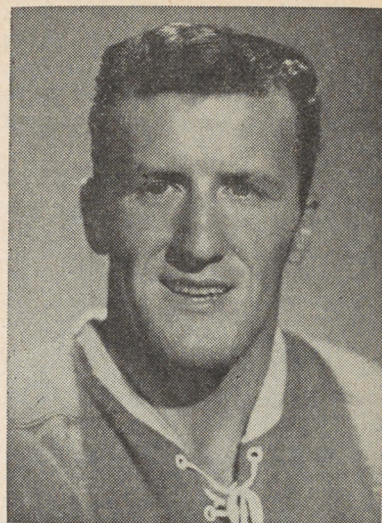

With Gordon MacPherson's orchestra, soprano Jean Marshall, 'cellist Edward Bisha, violinist Francis Chaplin, and harpist Phyllis Ensher. Program—The Dancing Master (Collins), Frasnita Serenade (Lehar), I'll See You Again (Coward), The Swan (Saint-Saens), Hungarian Rhapsody (Liszt), Guitarre (Moskowski), Without A Song (Youmans). From Halifax.

Meet Your N.H.L. Stars

Fourteenth in a new series of articles on N.H.L. stars to be seen in action on Saturday night telecasts over the CBC-TV network.

14. CLAUDE PROVOST

Claude Provost, a playoff star with the Canadiens last spring is a hard-working type of player who thrives on heavy work. On any other club in the league, he'd be a star; on the Canadiens he is always playing in the shadows of the club's two great right-wingers

Maurice Richard and Boom Boom Geoffrion.

Golf With Stan Leonard

In this program, stress is laid on the golfer choosing the correct-sized club to insure accuracy. The necessity for good stance of body and feet enable the golfer to drive accurately is emphasized.

The Twilight Zone

"Walking Distance." Gig Young stars in this story of a man who, fed up with the pressure of work, returns to his old neighbourhood and slips back 30 years in time to his childhood. An accident brings him together with his father who tries to help him return to the present.

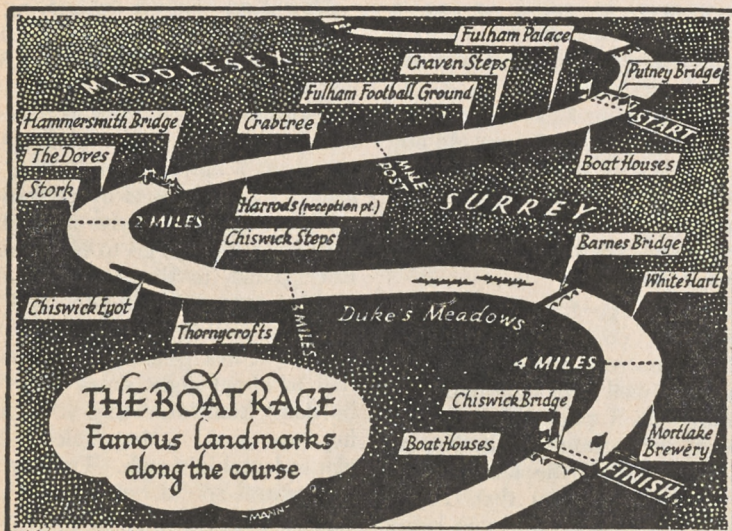

Though not particularly big (5' 8½" and 175 lbs.), Provost is solid on his skates and a tough man to knock off stride or to fend off if he's checking. His wide stance gives him unusual balance and surprising speed.

Provost has a shot best described as "sneaky fast", because it's just as difficult to handle as the much-publicized blasts of Geoffrion and Beliveau.

In this, his fifth year with the Canadiens, Provost is striving for his first 20-goal season and has a reasonable chance to reach that mark. In spite of the fact that his line spends most of its playing time checking the opposition's top scoring threats, Provost has 16 goals and 27 assists in 63 games. His best previous season was 1957-58 when he scored 19 times and added 32 assists.

A clutch player, Provost came to the Canadiens' rescue on several occasions in last year's Stanley Cup play-offs, netting 6 important goals in 11 games.

Provost was born in Montreal on September 17th, 1933. He's a graduate of the Junior Canadiens, one of seven such on the current roster and also one of the nine native Montreal boys on the team. Though not a rough player, he rates as one of Blake's "hardrock" kids and has contributed greatly to the team's success in the past five years. — Dennis O'Neill.

OXFORD-CAMBRIDGE BOAT RACE ON CBC-TV

Above is the route of the famous Oxford-Cambridge boat race. A film of this year's race will be presented this Saturday afternoon on CBC-TV and most affiliated stations. (Please check listings).

MARTIN LAVUT took a long swig of hot chocolate. "Acting is like love, you know," he said, leaning back in his chair. "You've got to give a lot to get a lot, but the main point is to give."

He speaks from 15 years' experience as an actor, but you would take him for a teenager. He certainly looks the part: dark hair falling casually over his forehead, rigged out in a grey sweater and slacks, raincoat and muffler, with a pile of books and scripts piled on the table in front of him. He has a slow charming smile that is inclined to linger teasingly in his dark eyes. He left his teens five years ago, but he still hasn't shed his youthful awareness of life, and this, coupled with his lean look and unlined face, has usually landed him in teenage acting roles in radio, TV and on the stage.

Does he mind? Not a bit. For him a role is a role, because acting is in his blood. The "disease," which he feels is incurable, is not an inherited affliction. It was brought on by very early exposure to children's theatre, and inflamed by years of study and work in the Pasadena Playhouse in California and the American Theatre Wing in New York. Now Lavut is so addicted to showbusiness (acting, writing, directing) that he thinks a cure is impossible. "Oh, I had a wild idea when I went to Sir George Williams University in Montreal that I'd teach English and write novels," he told us, "but of course I couldn't keep away from acting."

He has played juveniles for the National Film Board, on stage (A View from the Bridge with Luther Adler), on radio and TV, including roles in Radisson, The Unforeseen, R.C.M.P., Heritage, and G.M. Presents.

His most interesting role to date, and, he thinks, the best written, is the lead in Mordecai Richler's The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz on G.M. Presents this Sunday night. Producer Harvey Hart says "Lavut had a remarkable first reading, winning the Kravitz role from a large number of contenders."

Lavut describes Duddy Kravitz as a fascinating character, a 17-

"ACTING IS LIKE LOVE . . ."

—says Martin Lavut, who plays the title role in "The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz" this Sunday, (April 3) on G.M. Presents year-old who feels rejected and has a driving ambition to be somebody. He goes to a summer resort in the Laurentians to work as a waiter, and in his words, "to make a study of the hotel business, like." Duddy is no slouch. He works hard and accumulates a small fortune in tips, but his college-boy colleagues soon get browned off with his bumptiousness, flashy dress and naive boasting. One of them gets the hotel owner's daughter to help him involve Duddy in an illegal scheme—a "sure moneymaker." Duddy, now turned into a tough little animal, falls for the plan.

Lavut is a stickler for authenticity, and just looking the part of Duddy does not satisfy him. He has read Richler's book several times, and gone over the play with a fine-toothed comb to get the feel of the character. He has stalked around observing teenagers, gone to teenage dances at the Y.M.H.A., and, because he passes as one of them, has picked up some useful information about their mannerisms and attitudes.

"But the thing I have to remember at 25 playing a 17-year-old boy is that a boy of that age would be playing at being 25. It's like a sober man playing a drunk—he has to remember that the drunk is trying to appear sober."

Not long ago Lavut wrote and directed a documentary film in Montreal on retarded children. He gets along well with children. "For a good chat I prefer the average child to the average adult. No, no kidding, I do. If the children are phoney they tell you that they're playing it that way, and you know where you're at."

He told us that while acting is his bread and butter, writing and photography are his sidelines. He sold a radio play to Vancouver Theatre, is working on a television drama, and has done some shooting for the National Film Board—picture stories, mostly, but, having recently lost his camera, his activity in this line is at a dead stop.

Give him a book and he's happy, he says. "I used to read a book a day. And magazines, of course. I like to form my own opinions, so a couple of weeks ago I didn't buy Time and I walked around feeling great—looked at the birds, breathed like a free man. Then as Wednesday rolled round I began to shake. Lost my appetite, and when I saw movie director Ingmar Bergman's picture on the cover of the new edition, that did it. I succumbed again. I'm an inveterate movie-goer, too. It's like drink. I'm lost without them."

Had he ever thought of trying his luck in Hollywood?

"It's dead. They'll be burying it next year. It would be nice to stick around here. It's my country. But it's unfortunate that an actor here has to do so much work to make a living. Oh—don't get me wrong! It's not work I mind. It's just that an actor in Canada gets over-exposed too quickly. If I were interested only in acting, I'd go to New York. But I'd like to direct, too, so I'll probably stay in Toronto, and, if my luck holds," he crossed his fingers with a quick grin, "I hope that in about eight years' time I'll be doing some directing and picking my own acting roles." He glanced at his watch. "I'm due at a rehearsal so I'd better get moving."

He gathered up his pile of books, scripts and magazines (was that flash of red a coy of Time?), and loped off.—June Graham.

The Cattle Barons

Members of the "old guard" of Canadian ranching recall the good old days before the "university cowmen" arrived

THE "good old days" of the hard - riding, hard - drinking cowboy are fast giving way to mechanized efficiency. Tuesday night on CBC radio Project '60 spotlights the dramatic story of the changing atmosphere of the British Columbia cattle country. Mike Ferguson, Slim Campbell and Pete Barker — "not much for talkin' unless talkin' horses" — are among the colourful old-timers you will hear from who have spent 25 years or more in the saddle in the third largest cattle range in the world. They are proud of their profession.

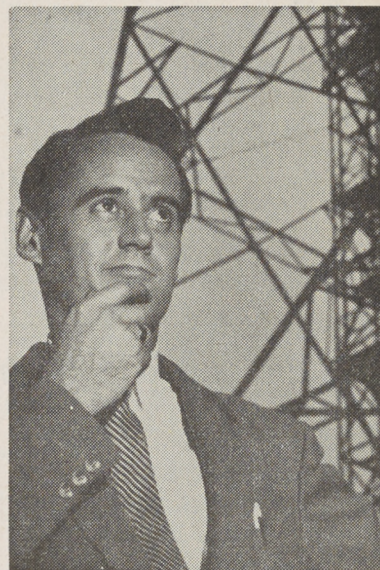

But the old guard is dying out, replaced by "university cowmen," and, says Barker, "they don't pan out too good."

Project '60 recalls the supporting role the brass rail has played in the cattle story. Names on the B.C. map like Hundred Mile House, The Ninety-Three and The Fifty-One all began as stopping places for the gold coach, the miners, the gay ladies and the gamblers. After the gold rush cattlemen drove their herds northward in search of markets and land. In a recording made before her death in 1958 Mrs. Norman Lee, 86-year-old pioneer, tells the harrowing story of her husband's unsuccessful cattle drive to the Klondike in 1898, when he lost his entire herd in the freeze-up, and barely survived himself.

Project '60 also looks at one of the big problems of B.C. ranching today — what many Canadians regard as selling out to the American cattle ranchers. Only last year the owners of Douglas Lake Ranch sold out for half-a-million dollars less than the asking price, to keep the land in Canadian hands. But American ranchers are moving in regardless, continuing a trend that started back in 1879.

The world of cowboys, ranchers, cattle rustlers and outlaws is not a predominately male world. Project '60 tells the story of Cecilia McIvor, one of the notorious McLeans, a family of half-breed cattle rustlers, thieves and murderers. She was a violent young woman who stabbed her lover — "the darn fool bled to death"—and got away with it. The Cattle Barons has been prepared by Hilda Brown.

MUSIC ON RADIO

By BOYD NEEL

THE OPERA this week (April 2) from the Metropolitan is Verdi's Simon Boccanegra, which I am delighted to see is being performed in Toronto by the same Company in June. The Metropolitan have not done this great work for some years, but it is usually in the repertoire of most opera houses throughout the world. At Sadler's Wells it has had great success since it was revived there some twelve years ago.

This opera was written originally in 1857, when it was a complete flop, and little if anything remains of the original version. In 1881, Verdi, with the help of Boito, wrote what is some times referred to as a "revised version" but it was far more than this and was, in effect, a completely new opera. The work we know today is therefore an opera of Verdi's complete maturity, having been composed between Aida and Otello, and it contains some of the most exciting scenes the master ever devised, chief among them being the finale of Act 1, which many think to be superior to the corresponding scene in Otello. It is the scene in the Council Chamber of the Doge which has a certain likeness to the finale to the third act of the later opera. The 1881 production at La Scala, Milan, had a fantastic cast including Tamagno, Maurel and Edouard de Reszke. Boccanegra is one of the greatest baritone roles of the operatic stage.

The trouble with the piece as a whole is that the story is so complicated and abstruse that it almost defies explanation. In the Sadler's Wells production, which is in English, it has been slightly altered at certain points in an endeavour to (Please turn to page 31)

 Scotland. "The Fair City" is set in some of the loveliest and most romantic countryside in Britain. Around it are ruined castles and great mansions, grouse moors and salmon streams, and to the north, some of Scotland's finest farms. Each year the great cattle sales held at Perth draw thousands of visitors from all over the world. Perth is also a great centre for golf and curling, and Mr. Bush will find out about the origins of these sports.

MORNING DEVOTIONS

CBW — The Rev. William Davies, Secretary, British Bible Society. CBK — Rev. William Gietz, Westmount Baptist Church. CBX—Canon Charles E. Wolfe, St. Stephen's Anglican. W-10:48 am K-10:48 am X-10:48 am

TRANS-CANADA MATINEE

Betty Tomlinson in Halifax. A word-picture of the city of Halifax, recorded by Matinee's hostess, Betty Tomlinson, and introducing the city that will act as host for the next four weeks.

In My Opinion. There was much discussion last summer during the Royal Tour of a speech by the Duke of Edinburgh in which he stated that Canadians weren't as physically fit as they ought to be. Today, in Halifax, a group of hardy and not-so-hardy Haligonians takes up the discussion again.

Come Into The Garden. Lilacs and daffodils are the two flowers more than any others, probably, that spell spring to most Canadians. Today, Mary Ferguson talks about these plants, suggests some new varieties, and gives some advice about planting them in new and different ways. Mrs. Ferguson is a Montreal gardener and broadcaster who contributes frequently to Trans-Canada Matinee.

W-2:03 pm K-2:33 pm X-2:33 pm

SCHOOL BROADCASTS

Manitoba — "Magic Moments." For grades 1-2. Each program is divided into three parts—a speech exercise, a poem, and a story. Today's poem—"Spring Waking." Part two of this program is entitled "Stories of the Romans."

Saskatchewan — "Magic Moments" and Ici le Francais, for grades 9-10.

Alberta — Program News for Parents and Listen and Sing.

NOW AND THEN

First broadcast in a new series with co-hosts Gordon Sinclair, Jr. and veteran actor Gerry Rowan. From Montreal. The shows will look back on the music, news and customs of other years and make humorous comparisons with today's trends. Singers Sheila Graham and Fred Hill, the Buck Lacombe Quintet and accordionist Gordie Fleming will provide music and song from now and then—the swinging music of today and the authentic old tunes of another era.

POST-NEWS TALK

This is the season when Canadians are most active in theatre work, as regional drama festivals prepare for the Dominion finals in Vancouver. The post-news talk this Monday, Tuesday, and Friday all deal with the theatre. Tonight and tomorrow CBC drama producer Rupert Caplan recalls his days as an actor in New York, and in particular, his memories of Eugene O'Neill. Caplan acted in several of O'Neill's plays and got to know the playwright as well as many of his acquaintances. He remembers with special fondness the occasion when a well-known but unscheduled performer came on stage in one of O'Neill's own plays and reduced its author to rare and hilarious laughter. W-9:20 pm K-8:20 pm X-8:20 pm

"Family Worship" speaker draws praise from adherents of all denominations

Few radio programs of any type bring in as steady a flow of appreciative mail as the five-minute devotional, Family Worship, heard at 7:55 a.m. Monday to Saturday on CBW, CBK, CBX and CBXA.

The comments come not only from listeners in the three prairie provinces served by these stations, but also from Ontario and the United States.

Letters of appreciation come from adherents of all denominations — Roman Catholics, Anglicans, Seventh Day Adventists, the Church of the Nazarene, Mennonites, Christian Scientists, Lutherans, Presbyterians, United Church and Jehovah Witnesses. This is a situation very encouraging to the CBC's Prairie Region program department and to the producer responsible for Family Worship, for behind the program lies the theory that there are many matters of faith which can be accepted by all Christians, regardless of denomination.

Although Family Worship does occasionally refer to current events, the real purpose of the program is to bring the element of timeless, eternal verity into the passing parade of the day on radio.

Family Worship began nearly ten years ago, the Reverend Irwin McKinney officiating. When Mr. McKinney moved to the United States, the program was continued by Rev. E. Checkland. The present speaker took over on February 1, 1954, when Mr. Checkland was called to a church in Hamilton, Ont.

Naturally, many people know the identity of the minister now officiating on Family Worship. Nevertheless, he has not been named on any of the 2,000 programs he has broadcast, because of the importance attached to the non-denominational nature of the series, which, as indicated, seems to be one of its most successful characteristics.

New Programs—New Times

We suggest readers check this week's radio listings carefully. They contain new programs, and many other programs have been moved to new times.

Umbrella Talk. April showers may bring May flowers; they also bring a forest of umbrellas. Brian Greggains, who came to Canada from England not too long ago, comments. Mr. Greggains has recently moved to Ottawa; when this talk was recorded he was making his home in Toronto. He's a writer and broadcaster and has contributed to various CBC programs as well as to magazines and periodicals.

The Addict. Dr. David A. Stewart is a consulting psychologist who specializes in therapeutic work with narcotics addicts; he has just published a book, "Thirst for Freedom." He talks with Toronto trade publication editor Jon Keiran about the use of tranquilizers, barbiturates and benzedrine pills and about the effects of prolonged use of such drugs.

Who Is My Neighbour? Mr. and Mrs. Henry de Grieff came to Canada from Germany eight years ago. They like living in a large city and have made their permanent home in a French-speaking suburb of Montreal. They have two children. Mr. de Grieff, an industrial photographer, dreamed of coming to Canada even as a small child; his dream came true after the Second World War. He talks to Montreal broadcaster Lou Craig about Canadian employers and Canadian hospitality; Mrs. de Grieff mentions her life in a war-torn country.

Daily features . . . Recorded music by David Murray from Halifax, news commentary by Gerard Pelletier of Montreal, and another reading by Diana Maddox from Charlotte Bronte's "Villette", adapted for radio by Sally Creighton.

AN UNCONVENTIONAL, courageous radio play about marriage, which won an Italia Prize, will be presented this week on CBC Wednesday Night.

The Quick and the Dead, by Herbert Eisenreich, was written originally in German. The English version to be presented this Wednesday was translated by Toronto actor Ivor Barry from a copy of the text in French. Mr. Barry is an honours graduate in French language and literature of the University of Wales.

One of the interesting things about the play, Barry tells us, is the fact that it has only two characters. Karin and Felix Hildebrandt, a married couple, are on the brink of middle age. "We overhear a very important conversation they have one evening in their apartment in a German city after supper," he explained. "We are actually watching the end of an affair, the rupture of a union. The two become aware of this rupture only when their household and their world is suddenly bereft of economic success. The husband, an advertising agent, is judged too serious and intellectual — in other words, out of date — and is shunned by the commercial firms who have been employing him on a freelance basis."

Barry went on to say that "it now becomes evident that the material success they enjoyed has killed their love, and tonight, when Felix faces his failure, Karin passes judgment on her marriage, her husband and herself. At last she can have this conversation that she has wanted for so long. She has never been able to have it because she has always been frustrated by the barrier of whirlwind social and business activity, enthusiasm and optimism behind which her husband has hidden. Felix, desperate now, implores Karin to start again "from zero" with him. But she can't. She is no longer the woman who was in love with him. What is irrevocable done cannot be undone."

Barry pointed out that one of the unconventional aspects of the play is the fact that "Eisenreich gives his heroine monologues of extraordinary length, and within them occur imaginary conversations with her husband. These are most unusual in that while the monologue is maintained we cannot hear the husband, although we know perfectly well what he is saying.

"The play," he said, "is a sort of balance sheet, showing not figures but ourselves, our indifference, our emotional inertia, and the almost total lack of contact with others most of us suffer from. When at the end of the play the wife three times asks hopelessly: 'What are

A Baseball "Great." Canada may still be a little cold for baseball but our neighbours to the south are opening the season officially this week. To salute the season, Matinee presents one of baseball's famous names, Roy Campanella. Mr. Campanella was Brooklyn Dodger's star catcher when a serious automobile accident in January, 1958, cut short his career. He talks with Toronto freelance broadcaster and television research assistant Christa Singer about his career and about his recovery from the accident that has left him a quadriplegic.

The Metre Reader. Poetry in the spring: who has not succumbed to that romantic temptation? Tommy Tweed, Toronto actor, leans more heavily to humour than to romance in his selection of poetry for the amusement of Matinee listeners.

For Consumers. Jean Morrison, Ottawa housewife and freelance broadcaster, brings back to Matinee a popular Thursday feature of interest to all consumers. Mrs. Morrison is a frequent contributor to Matinee and to many other CBC programs, both national and regional in the Ottawa area.

QUICK AND DEAD

we going to do", we realize that Eisenreich has led us to the brink of the abyss and allowed us to catch a glimpse of what lies within."

Eisenreich was born at Linz, Austria, in 1925. He cut short his studies at the University of Vienna to devote himself entirely to writing, but found in his early days that he had to earn the large part of his living as a messenger boy and an office clerk. He has been writing steadily since 1946. In 1951 he went to Germany, where he worked in various stations of German radio, returning to Vienna in 1956. Now he is a correspondent for Radio Bremen and contributes to various literary reviews. He has published a novel, a collection of short stories, and several radio plays. The Quick and the Dead was named best radio play of the year in a contest organized in 1955 by Radio Bremen to encourage young writers. Later it won the Italia Prize.

make it a little clearer. Such things as the fact that Simon dies at the end of the opera of a slow poison taken much earlier on in the evening do nothing to make matters easier for the student.

The play on which the opera is based was by an author called Gutierrez, who was also the originator of the Trovatore story which is generally held to be the most involved of all opera plots. Gutierrez seems to have had a passion for lost babies and mistaken identities. Such plots, of course, have always been popular in the theatre from the Comedy of Errors down to The Importance of Being Earnest and The Gondoliers and have always provided plenty of chances for a composer, as there is generally a "recognition" scene which gives scope for the writing of an emotional duet. Bocanegra is no exception to this rule and one of the most beautiful scenes is where Simon discovers his long lost child.

For the Verdi lover who is not already acquainted with it, Bocanegra is sure to prove an exhilarating revelation on Saturday afternoon.

It is good to see Sir Thomas Beecham's name in the programs and his concerts on Sunday and Friday are typical in their composition. Two Haydn Symphonies, a Brahms Symphony, a Mozart Symphony, a Handel Suite arranged by himself and the love scene from Strauss' Feuersnot. This latter extract has always been a favourite of Beecham's, although the opera itself is little known outside Germany. Sir Thomas, however, gave it in London in 1910 during one of his seasons and, as far as I know, that is the only performance which it ever had in England. The story was always considered to be slightly "shocking," although the opera never became a "cause célèbre" as did Salome some years later. I saw a very fine production of Feuersnot in Munich just before the last war and I felt that, apart from the love scene which we are to hear on Sunday evening, the opera is really hardly worth reviving today.

Not many people realize that when a brand new aeroplane makes its first flight it is usually only one of three that have been built. One flies, but the other two are simply destroyed—tested to destruction on the ground.—Denis Desoutter, speaking about safety in the air, on BBC.

NATIONAL SCHOOL BROADCAST

Part 1 — Commonwealth Roundup. Today—"South African Gold Miner."

South Africa built her great cities, her railways and her roads out of the wealth of her gold mines. This broadcast takes us to the Witwatersrand mine. Our reporter goes down the mine shaft in the miner's cage and gives us a glimpse of the enormous underground factory as he descends past the brightly-lit stations which mark the various working levels and the first aid posts. When he returns to the surface, he has an opportunity to talk to the tribesmen in the compound built near the mine for their living quarters. The native labourer usually spend a year or so in the mines, then return to their tribal homes.

Part 2 — Canadian Artists. Today "Eskimo Carver." Until this past summer Kiawak and Egeevudluk, both adult male citizens of Canada, had never seen a museum or art gallery. Yet in some of the famous museums and art galleries of such European cities as Brussels, Paris and Madrid, the names of Kiawak and Egeevudluk are well known. Interviewer Susan Fletcher discusses Eskimo carvings with Mr. Donald Snowdon of Northern Affairs. They examine some of the factors that make Eskimo art unique and fascinating.

W-3:00 pm K-2:00 pm X-2:00 pm

Manitoba Singer On Talent Final

St. Boniface soprano Sylvia Saurette, now studying in Montreal, will be heard twice on CBC radio the week of March 27-April 2.

Miss Saurette was chosen one of the finalists in the CBC Talent Festival series. She qualified for the March 27 final program by winning one of the preliminary broadcasts from Montreal.

Three days later Miss Saurette will be soloist in the CBC Wednesday Night program of 17th-century music performed by the Renaissance Singers of Montreal. (See last week's CBC Times).

(Also chosen to compete on the final Talent Festival program were pianists Gordana Lazarevitch of Toronto and Andrea Kalanj of Vancouver, and baritone Cornelius Opthof of Toronto. Total prize money is $2,500—$1,000 each for the first-place instrumentalist and vocalist, $250 each for the runners-up.)

"I know an English beautician who claimed that she hadn't washed her face for twenty years. That didn't mean that it wasn't clean, of course; she used creams instead of water, which she said was fatal to the complexion. But in all my travels I haven't seen a complexion to match the women's here, except in Ireland, where it rains all the time.—

More "Canadian" Plays

• I would like to add my comments to a letter in the Mailbag of the CBC Times, commenting on Canadian TV plays. J. I. of Husavick, Man., refers to the endings of some of these plays as "stupid, moronic and idiotic." I ask, why apply these remarks to the endings only? Why not to the whole show, because most of these Canadian plays are just that in the opinion of a great many viewers. A classic example is The Importance of Being Earnest.—L. K., Rosetown, Sask.

The "Canadian" play to which J. I. objected ("Mailbag"—March 20-26) was Henrik Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People." Following is another letter we have received, commenting on CBC's production of that play:

• I don't make a practice of writing fan letters, but you deserve thanks for An Enemy of the People, and encouragement to give us more of this sort. Within the limits of your medium, your presentation put Ibsen's essential point across, and Bethune's use of the Miller version seemed to serve your purpose quite well. From a cast which included some of your top performers we naturally expected excellence; and we got it—from the principals at any rate. They formed an ensemble, and they were convincing—even Dr. Stockmann, though he was made to look (and sometimes act) like a blond Fidel Castro, completely devoid of the humour which Ibsen gave him in such rich measure. But never mind—something has to be sacrificed in TV versions. May I quibble on two specific points? Why, oh why, must performers in America distort the pronunciation of "Aslaksen"? (Walter Hampden did it; perhaps you caught it from him). Such names as Amundsen, Aslaksen, and Anstensen are all accented on the first syllable. Would you have the courage to stand on the stage and deliver yourselves of Andersen? More seriously: why did you magnify the stones which the mob threw at Dr. Stockmann's windows from pebbles into boulders? Was it because you felt that his Castroesque beard had to be matched by nothing less than paving stones? Ibsen always despised the mob and, as you know, made a point of stressing it here: there were only two decent-sized rocks in the lot; the rest were mere pebbles. This contempt is very much a part of the doctor's mood as he "stands alone" at the final curtain. I think it should have been included. These points, while important to me and perhaps to other students of Ibsen, may not matter too much to your general audience. It is evident that you now have the makings of quite a respectable repertoire of Ibsen's plays. May we expect a series, spaced at not too great intervals of the following: A Doll's House, Ghosts, An Enemy of the People, and The Wild Duck? I think your public would love it.—A. Anstensen, Professor of Germanic Languages, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon.

Country Music

• Here's a vote for Don Messer and his Islanders. Just keep it as it is because we are convinced that they are all enjoying it as much as we are—and doing all the work. With regard to the Buchta Dancers: did you ever see another group who made you wish you were young enough to join them—and enjoy a nice lobster supper afterwards? Never mind the petticoats, Mrs. E. J. (Mailbag, March 20-26). Just watch the smile on the face of Marg as she passes the screen and you'll feel much happier.—A Channel Islander, Saskatoon.

• I have just finished reading Chester Duncan's comments on Country Hoedown and Don Messer's Jubilee in last week's CBC Times. This riled me so much that I just had to write. These are our favourite musicals and we always look forward to them immensely. So what if they come from the East? All the better, for they are interested in keeping up the good things of entertainment. At least with these two programs one can feel as if he actually knew all the characters. They are friendly and not so confounded so-so as a lot of singers are, who are afraid they might crack their made-up faces. So please keep up the good work. I'm sure 99 per cent of us are enjoying your music.—Mrs. Elvin Aymont.

• Chester Duncan's comments on Don Messer's Jubilee and Country Hoedown deserve comment. Please, yes please, couldn't you persuade him to analyze some other types of TV programs in the manner he has done these two?—L. J., Cropp, Gerald, Sask.

He does, regularly, on "Critically Speaking"—3:30 p.m. Sundays on CBW; 2:30 p.m. on CBK and CBX.

More Modesty

• I am very happy to be able to congratulate many CBC-TV productions such as Happyland, Flying Doctor, Lassie, hockey and science productions. But undressed, that is improperly dressed, children should not be accepted to appear on Calling All Children. And on Front Page Challenge, which we especially appreciate, the lady should be irreproachably dressed. She should wear dresses with neck openings that are not too low and at least short sleeves. She is very beautiful and she is a very learned woman. Also, the picture in CBC Times for March 13-19, page 3, is immoral and I am wondering if this picture is going to be on TV this Saturday. Adults with high moral principles do not approve such views. Cancel this program please.—Mrs. M. P., Somerset, Man.

Candida

• Remembering the 683 (if that is the correct number) people who took the trouble to complain about Manon, I thought it only fair that at least one should take the trouble to write and congratulate all concerned with Shaw's Candida last night. I saw Candida on the stage many years ago, but cannot now remember too much about it, but I was really thrilled with last night's performance. I would like to think that one person's appreciation of such an excellent production would have a little weight against the 795 people who will now write in to say it was a complete waste of time. Could we have some more Shaw?—Miss D.M.C., Charleswood, Man.

If 795 viewers are going to write in to complain about "Candida", they are taking their time about it. At press time we had received no written complaints. By phone—16 complaints.

• I have been a constant listener to CBC radio for I hate to say how many years. I hate praising or complaining about programs, but I think Stories With John Drainie is marvelous. But that is not why I am writing. I just couldn't help saying how much I enjoyed Kate Reid in Candida. I am sure even Bernard Shaw would have been happy. May we have more plays of this calibre?—B. M., Craik, Sask.
